About This Major . . .

The Associate of Science (A.S.) degree is designed for students who intend to continue their education and obtain a baccalaureate degree. Following the education ladder concept, the A.S. is an appropriate choice for community college students who will eventually take upper division coursework in sport management, business, athletic training, and kinesiology. The degree program includes the Colorado Statewide General Education Core and meets the lower-division general education requirements at most public institutions in Colorado. The program is designed for students who intend to continue on, but want to show completion of a two-year degree.

The Sport Management A.S. degree, in addition to providing students with their general education requirements, is useful in giving students an overview of the discipline of Sport Management and how it applies to the business of sport in all of its many facets. Western Colorado's active lifestyle provides the student a variety of opportunities for internships and entry-level employment in commercial or public recreation and sport organizations. Graduates of this program may obtain entry-level positions in sport management or continue to pursue their bachelor-level education to obtain eventual higher level positions in sport management, business, or kinesiology related positions
